

Take Advantage of the Lifesaving Society High School Credit Program

Some of your students may have approached you about receiving a high school credit for the Lifesaving courses they have taken. This program allows students entering grades 10-12 to put their Lifesaving training towards their high school diploma. The project is supposed to be approved by school faculty before the student begins the courses, however, we realize that some students will have to get courses retroactively approved as many students begin Lifesaving training before entering grade 10.

Recently, we sent out letters to High Schools across the province regarding the requirements of this project. The guidelines for the project as well as a list of applicable courses can be found in the High School Credit Workbook. The workbook is available from the Lifesaving Society for $6.50 + GST or can be downloaded for free from our website: www.lifesavingsociety.sk.ca

Please contact Ashley or Shelby at the Lifesaving Society office for more information.
